Reviews

An incredibly great book with perfect and lucid answers. Better then never, though i am quite late in start reading this one. You will not sense monotony at whenever you want of the time (that's what catalogues are for relating to if you question me).

Excerpt: . . . are kept, and all the work of compiling the data received from the various observers goes on. Connected with the office, too, is a complete observing station, ranking first-class in all of its appointments. Self-recording instruments, maximum and minimum thermometers, anemometer, wet and dry bulb thermometer, are conveniently located on the summit of the roof. Two standard barometers are in use in the office, and a standard rain gauge is located in rear, of the building at the surface of the ground. On the roof is a 36-foot Mag-staff, upon which are displayed daily signal flags giving the weather indications. Tri-daily observations are taken at 7 A. M. , 3 p. M. , and 10 p. M. , which are transmitted by telegraphic cipher to Washington, where they are used in the preparation of a daily weather map of the United States, and for other meteorological purposes. The Central Weather Station in the past year has been able to procure from C S. Signal Service in Washington daily telegraphic dispatches, giving the state of the weather, barometer reading, temperature, rainfall, and c, of thirty different stations, scattered throughout the United States, which are published in the daily city papers, and posted in several public places for the convenience of the people generally. These telegrams are used by the business men of the city and by the Cotton and Grocers Exchange; at this latter building a large U. S. map is displayed, on which are...
