In like manner, Mr. Brodie having observed, that the administration of arsenic was uniformly followed by profuse secretion of mucus and watery liquors into the stomach, divides the nerves of the eighth pair in dogs, and then administers the poison, but no secretions are afterwards effused into the stomach. Professor Harwood of Cambridge gives to two dogs, equal in age, health, and appetite, equal quantities of flesh meat. They were pointers, and he suffers one of the dogs to do what nature indicated to be favourable to digestion, to lie down by the fire and go to sleep; but he entices the other into the fields, and causes him to hunt about for game. After some hours he kills both dogs, and...
